THE LARRIKINS * HISTORY BROUGHT TO LIFE.

Australian folklorist and cultural historian, Warren Fahey, formed The Larrikins in 1969 to present Australian traditional music, especially the old bush songs. Since then the group membership has evolved to feature some of the great names in Australian folk music. The current line-up has played together since 2002. He says it is the best ever!

As a group The Larrikins have represented Australia in 16 international cultural exchanges, performed at most State and regional art festivals, toured extensively for Musica Viva and recorded countless ABC radio programs, The Larrikins have released 12 albums since 2002.

A great night of entertainment

Bringing Australian history to life through songs, poems, yarns and stories guarantees a great night of fun and music. "The Larrikins are as genuine as the smell of gum-leaves on an open fire". (Philip Adams, ABC)
